cosma
The Software Architects

Product Owner keycloak in banking context

cosma

cosma is an independent IT consulting company. We advise and support internationally stock exchange listed / medium-sized companies and start-ups across industries in the areas of software architecture, software engineering and IT project management.

We are looking for a technical person that can work as product owner in a professional organization. The candidate must have experience running keycloak securely and reliably while implementing and commissioning new features. A key aspect of the job is to improve non-interruptive operation and prepare the system for more load in the future.

Tasks

- Understand and support our setup for authentication of external individuals and technical users via keycloak/RedHat SSO across different channels (Web Portal, Mobile App, API) and 3rd party applications
- Understand and support our setup for authorization of external individuals and technical users via custom developed Policy Decision Point to access resources across all channels and applications
- Software Lifecycle Management for keycloak
- Supper load and performance testing
- Support concepts for monitoring and environment management
- Governance to manage configuration of connected client applications / Establish guidelines how to connect new applications to our authentication and authorisation services

Skills/Experience

- Familiar with the role of a Product Owner and Platform as a Product approach
- Familiar how to act in a big organization in an agile environment (SAFe)
- Experience in operating keycloak
- Knowledge of authentication protocols and concepts: OAuth2, OpenID Connect, Multifactor Authentication
- Knowledge how to operate high-available, scalable, performant and resilient public facing internet services
- Knowledge about secure development and secure protocols
- Basic knowledge about PCI DSS and GDPR is helpful

Working model is mostly remote / On-Site workshops in Rhine/Main Area Germany can occur from time to time

German skills appreciated, but not necessarily required

What we offer

At cosma, you will have the opportunity to solve challenging tasks in exciting projects. You will be given responsibility at an early stage, so that you can quickly take on management tasks. And all this in line with your personal goals and private priorities. With a start-up spirit, flat hierarchies and the drive for innovation, we promote your development opportunities as well as your entrepreneurial commitment and independent action - with us you can move more and actively shape the development of cosma. And all that with an attractive salary and the opportunity to participate in cosma's success. Be part of it and shape the future together with us!